The San Francisco Chronicle debuted its new look today...and it appears the paper is on a diet. The new Chronicle is "slimmer, with pages that are shorter and narrower. But does a smaller paper mean less news and what do readers think of the makeover? Also, the move from the Chronicle's printing facilities in Union City location to this non-union plant, mean about 300 union workers lost their jobs.

The design team working on a new stadium proposal for the 49ers football team presented its latest concept to the Santa Clara City Council tonight. It's a high tech look that we haven't seen before at the details of the planned 68,000-seat facility. Two city council members have voted against the stadium's financial terms...$114 million dollars. While there is now a stadium design, the site is still subject to an environmental impact report and the whole project must receive voter approval in an election scheduled for next year.

In San Francisco, members of the Hotel Workers Union staged a rally on this Labor Day to push for a new contract. Healthcare is a key issue. The labor contract for all 9,000-hotel workers here and at about sixty other top hotels in San Francisco expired last month. Five years ago negotiations got nasty between Local 2 and the hotels. Workers walked off the job...then when they were ready to return, the hotels locked them out. The strife lasted almost two months before the dispute was resolved. Our calls to the Hyatt Regency management were not returned. But hotel occupancy is down this year in San Francisco and hotels have been slashing rates...signs perhaps that hotels workers could be in for another contract battle.

HIP Housing matches people through careful background checking.

Education

Air Date	Program	Length
7/10/09	All Newscasts	2:23	The furloughs and pay cuts that have hit state workers are about to spread to U.C. The university's president today proposed deep cuts to compensate for hundreds of millions of dollars lost in state revenue...cuts that will directly affect most of the U.C.'s 180,000 workers. The plan calls for cutting pay for workers between 4 and 10 percent. Outside the University of California offices in downtown Oakland, a small group of UC workers gathered, saying the cuts are unfair to the lowest wage earners. More student fee increases might be necessary in January.
7/21/09	All Newscasts	1:56	Students and teachers are already expressing concern tonight about a new California State University budget that makes major cuts statewide. This afternoon trustees approved a 20% fee hike; employee furloughs and pay cuts; and enrollment and program cuts. The cutbacks come as CSU absorbs a 20% reduction in state funding.
8/18/09	All Newscasts	2:12	For California public school students...the results are in...and it appears those students are doing a better job when it comes to proficiency tests. It showed students are improving statewide with 50% of students now proficient or above in English and 46% in Math. But African American and Latino students still lag behind. But in San Francisco, the city's African American and Latino students had bigger gains than ever before.
8/25/09	All Newscasts	:52	A protest against state budget cuts marked the first day of classes at San Francisco State University. Members of the California Faculty Association handed out complaint forms this afternoon, on which students could list problems they are experiencing...because of the budget cuts. For most students the concerns are the same: class cancellation...that could delay their plans for graduations. The complaint forms will be presented to the CSU Trustees and the California Legislature.

A new Transbay tunnel is in the works, but not to carry Bart passengers...instead it will carry water. Operators of the Hetch Hetchy water system that millions of Bay Area residents depend on...say a new tunnel deep beneath the Bay is critical, to replace old, aging pipes that could fail in a major earthquake.

Environment

Air Date	Program	Length
8/1/09	Bay Area People	5:00	Sustainlane.com is the web's largest people-powered guide to a sustainable living. The website is filled with personal accounts of how-to's, news, and local business and product reviews for sustainable and healthier living. Joining us is Jordana Gustafson, Content Manager for Sustainlane.com, who demonstrates how everyone can use everyday household products to clean the home, instead of purchasing expensive, chemical filled products.
8/15/09	Bay Area People	5:00	John Stufflebean of the San Jose/Santa Clara Water Pollution Control Plant joins us to talk about their very popular wastewater tours. The 2 hour bus tour covers their 200 acre site and takes you through the process of what happens to our wastewater; how it arrives at the plant, to the various processing steps to the final product of drinking water. Tours are free and they offer a unique perspective to our dependency on water. There is a waitlist and a reservation is required.
7/8/09	All Newscasts	1:58	San Francisco Bay is being invaded and scientists tonight are battling to stop it. What's threatening the Bay is a foreign species of kelp that scientists say could wreck the Bay's entire ecosystem.
8/19/09	All Newscasts	2:58	The idea is to turn saltwater into drinking water, but it faces a torrent of opposition. Tonight, the Marin Municipal Water District is deciding whether to go forward with plans to build a controversial and expensive desalinization plant. The facility would be built on the edge of the Bay in San Rafael and could ensure a fresh water supply during a drought. The price tag: more than $100 million dollars.
8/25/09	All Newscasts	1:01	Insect experts told Sacramento lawmakers today that efforts to eradicate the light brown apple moth likely are a waste of time. One scientist from UC Davis said the moth has become an established species in California and nothing can be done to change that. The state senator who called the fact-finding hearing said he was disappointed the State Department of Food and Agriculture didn't attend. The light brown apple moth eats more than 2,000 species of plants and more than 250 types of crops.

7/14/09	All Newscasts	2:52	Supreme Court nominee Sonia Sotomayor answered tough, often skeptical questions from Republican senators today...the second day of her confirmation hearing. She repeatedly denied bringing racial bias into the courtroom. Sotomayor was trying to explain controversial comments she made about a "wise Latina woman."
7/14/09	All Newscasts	2:52	In Oakland, some business owners and residents are furious about the city's new policy involving parking; fines for tickets have gone way up; meter hours have been extended; and crews looking for violators appear to be taking their jobs to a whole new level...all to help the city deal with its deep budget deficit.
7/14/09	All Newscasts	2:52	Governor Schwarzenegger and top lawmakers are meeting behind closed doors as they try to find ways to close California's gaping budget deficit. But with no deal yet, the Governor says he must prepare to slash another 2,000 state jobs. News reports from the state capitol with tonight's developments.
7/19/09	All Newscasts	4:23	Forty years ago tonight, the crew of the Apollo Eleven Lunar Module was preparing to land on the moon. But as our Science Editor explains in this special report, the next "leap for mankind" may not belong to the United States.
7/19/09	All Newscasts	2:39	In Sacramento, state legislators were set to meet with the governor this evening on a possible deal to end California's budget standoff. But the Governor pulled out of that meeting just hours before it was set to begin.
7/20/09	All Newscasts	2:53	An Alameda County grand jury has issued a blistering report about travel expenses of Oakland city officials. It included details of trips to Las Vegas, Hooters Restaurants, even Alaska (for some dubious reasons)...and all at taxpayers expense.
8/18/09	All Newscasts	2:42	A battle is brewing in San Francisco that could pit the board of supervisors and against the mayor and the federal government and it all stems from a proposal about deportation...that would protect undocumented juveniles, who have been accused of a felony, but not convicted.

8/18/09 All Newscasts 1:02

The San Jose City Council voted overwhelmingly today to approve developing a policy for releasing their personal emails and texts to the public. But council members say it is common for them to receive private text messages during public council meetings and sometimes those messages involve city business. The Rules and Open Government Committee will write a policy in the coming months and it will be sent back to the council for approval.

8/25/09 All Newscasts 2:56

A massive “eviction” took place tonight in Oakland and it came with little warning. About two hundred residents of an apartment building were ordered to immediately vacate their homes. Building inspectors red-tagged the Amber Tree Apartments on Foothill Blvd, near 25th Ave., condemning the building because of electrical and fire code violations. A temporary shelter has been set up tonight at a nearby recreation center.

9/17/09 All Newscasts 2:03

The official list hasn’t been released yet, but there is word that two State Parks in Sonoma County are on California’s budget cutting “hit” list and will soon be closed. The parks are Annadel State Park and Petaluma Adobe State Park. Annadel is the largest park in Sonoma County. Supporters of the state parks say they’re lining up voluntary park patrols and looking for outside funds to help keep the parks staffed and open. An official announcement could come as soon as next week.
